DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-5,8-10,12-17,19,20 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The prior art cited does not anticipate individually nor teach in combination the following limitations:
 - A generally planer first mirror having a perimeter, the mirror further displaying an associated angle of incidence and an angle of reflection, the angle of incidence being equal to the angle of reflection and the angle of incidence and the angle of reflection both being defined with reference to a normal to the mirror surface; a raised barrier surrounding at least a portion of the perimeter of the mirror; and angled side that forms an angle with the plane of the mirror of about forty five degrees; and a light source to illuminate a user before the mirror, the light source being positioned peripheral to the perimeter , the light source being substantially fully exposed and positioned at least partially behind the plane of the mirror such that a ray tangent to the forward most portion of the light source traveling along the angle of incidence and not intercepted by the raised barrier and reflecting proximate the perimeter of the mirror and traveling along the angle of reflection does not impinge on a users eyes.
 - A generally planar fist mirror having a perimeter, the mirror further displaying an associated angle of incidence and an angle of reflection, the angle of incidence being equal to the angle of reflection and the angle of incidence and the angle of reflection both being defined with reference to a normal to the mirror surface; a raised barrier surrounding at least a portion of the perimeter of the mirror; a wall-mounting bracket comprising a leveling adjustment structure and a horizontal positioning adjustment structure and a light source to illuminate a user before the mirror, the light source being positioned peripheral to the perimeter, the light source being substantially fully exposed and positioned at least partially behind the pane of the mirror such that a ray tangent to the forward most portion of the light source traveling along the angle of incidence and not intercepted by the raised barrier and reflecting proximate the perimeter of the mirror and traveling along the angle of reflection does not impinge on a users eye.

- A generally planar first mirror having a perimeter, the mirror further displaying an associated angle of incidence and an angle of reflection, the angle of incidence being equal to the angle of reflection and the angle of incidence and the angle of reflection both being defined with reference to a normal to the mirror surface; a raised barrier surrounding at least a portion of the perimeter of the mirror; a carrying handle; base supports; and a light source to illuminate a user before the mirror, the light source being positioned peripheral to the perimeter, the light source being substantially fully exposed and positioned at least partially behind the plane mirror such that a ray tangent to the forward most portion of the light source traveling along the angle of incidence and not intercepted by the

- raised barrier and reflecting proximate the perimeter of the mirror and traveling along the angle of reflection does not impinge on the users eye;
- a plurality of modular rectilinear mirror units arranged generally side by side adjacent one another and each mirror unit having a surround; the surround of a first of said mirror units comprising lamps on three sides thereof; the surrounds of a second of said mirror units comprising lamps on two sides thereof; and the mirror units being arranged such that each modular mirror unit is illuminated on each of three sides thereof; and in which the surrounds of each mirror unit have a beveled portion and the beveled portion of the surround supports the lamps to illuminate users of the mirrors.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
